PETITION FOR REHEARING

WEI ZHOU
PRO SE
825 N 22nd STREET. APARTMENT 202
MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN 53233
(414) 322-6742

To comply with Rule 44.2 of the Supreme Court of the United States, the petitioner has his grounds limited to intervening circumstances of a substantial or controlling effect or to other substantial grounds not previously presented as follows:

Article 3 of the Constitution of the United States defines and limits the judicial power in the United States federal system. It also enumerates nine categories of cases and controversies which the Supreme Court and lower federal courts may hear. The nine categories of cases include those called federal questions in 28 U.S.C.§1331 and those called diversity of citizenship in 28 U.S.C.§1332.

Since the claims of the petitioner are both federal questions and diversity of citizenship, the ORDER sought to be reviewed entered by Chief Judge Frank H. Easterbrook, Circuit Judge William J. Bauer and Circuit Judge John Daniel Tinder of United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit on December 5, 2008, violates the Constitution of the United States, Article 3, 28 U.S.C.§1331 and 28 U.S.C.§1332, which is exactly a compelling reason for both the Supreme Court of the United States and the petitioner for granting the petition for a writ of certiorari.

Since the petition for a writ of certiorari should have been granted, therefore this petition for rehearing should be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

Wei Zhou
